LANZHOU UNIVERSITY
LANZHOU UNIVERSITY

Requirements:
Students must be full-time with at least sophomore status and a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.5.

Financial responsibilities:
Students pay tuition to Muskingum. Scholarships and financial aid packages stay in place. Students pay for room and board, if a meal plan is provided, directly to Lanzhou University. Students are also responsible for transportation to and from Lanzhou University, health insurance coverage, class materials such as books, and any incidental costs.

Room and Board:
Students who have registered at the University shall live in the International Guest House of if Lanzhou University or other rooms arranged for international students. There is a dining hall on the ground floor of the International Guest House and some other dining halls on campus. You may buy food from any of them. You may also cook by yourself in the public kitchen in the Foreign Guest House. The University's medical clinic is on campus. International students may see a doctor there with their student card. There are also some hospitals with good facilities near the University.

Classes:
Lanzhou offers several classes in the fields of Chinese language and literature, journalism, advertising, broadcasting and TV news, world history, Chinese history, ethnology, economics, marketing, administration, philosophy, sociology, legal science, English language and literature, Russian language and literature, information and computational science, physics, applied physics, theoretical and applied mechanics, microelectronics, material physics, material chemistry, computer science and technology, electronic information science and technology, communication engineering, biological science, biological technology, ecology, chemistry, chemical engineering and technology, applied chemistry, geography, resources and environment and regional planning, geographical information system, atmosphere science, environment science, geology, hydrology and hydroelectric resources engineering, applied meteorology.

About Lanzhou:
Founded in 1909 and located in Lanzhou, the capital city of Gansu Province, Lanzhou University is one of the key universities under Ministry of Education, China. Lanzhou University is also a research center in nuclear energy and a hub for transportation and industry.

Website:
http://www.lzu.edu.cn/