

March 2022

Dear Friends,

We often say that at Muskingum, we educate the whole student for the whole world. That statement has taken on an even more powerful meaning in the past few weeks as students, faculty, and staff have experienced direct connections with the invasion of Ukraine.

As you will note in the accompanying story, Dr. Richard Arnold, of our Political Science Department, has strong professional and personal ties to Ukraine and is helping the campus community develop a deeper understanding of this region and its place in the world.

I listened to his and other stories of powerful connections to international communities, I am struck once again by how vital this understanding of the world is for our collective future. Educating students in, about, and for the whole world is what Muskingum does. I am very grateful for the students, faculty, staff, and alumni who continue to lead us in that educational mission.

With prayers for peace,

President Sue Hasseler

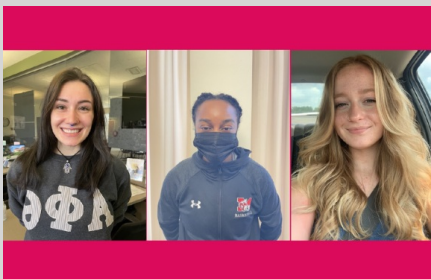

Ukraine, the Campus, and the World

Russian and European politics expert Dr. Richard Arnold will lead a teach-in as we support our community members who have personal connections to Ukraine.

Weathering the Storm

On February 3, the campus and New Concord lost power for 26 hours. With prudent planning and quick action, students were provided with heat, water, meals, and wi-fi throughout the outage.

Students Celebrate Black History & Women's History

The Black Student Union, Women in Politics, and the John and Annie Glenn Fellows create engaging events for Black History Month and Women's History Month.

ACADEMICS

Students Assist Zanesville City Council Redistricting

Dr. Walter Huber and Dr. Stephen Van Horn lead their Regional Planning students in interdisciplinary real-world projects, helping communities solve complex problems.
